Bill Offered to Penalize Insurance Firms

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Legislature disposed of the teacher retirement problem and moved to take habitual traffic offenders off the highways Tuesday.

Both houses passed bills to effect a compromise of teacher retirement without a dissenting vote. Sen. Clarence Bell told the Senate the compromise should dispose of the problem forever.

The Senate received a bill by Sen. J. Lee Bearden of Leachville to require out-of-state insurance companies to invest 75 per cent of the reserve in their Arkansas policies within the state or lose the right to do business here.

The Bearden bill is a much tougher version of an inaugural proposal by Gov. Orval E. Faubus to penalize foreign companies which refuse to invest in Arkansas.

Administration sources indicated the Bearden bill would get the governor's backing.

Earlier bills introduced in both houses would require companies to invest 50 per cent of Arkansas policy reserves accumulated after Jan. 1, 1963, or have their premium tax raised by one-half to one per cent.

The Bearden bill would give the firms three years to invest 75 per cent or take their business elsewhere.

The easy settlement on teacher retirement was expected. The compromise was worked out in pre-session meetings between Faubus and education leaders.

It calls for the state to contribute $5 million to the Teacher Retirement System in fiscal 1963-64 with the contribution increasing by $500,000 a year until the system becomes actuarially sound.

Teacher retirement was the big controversy of the 1961 Legislature with the Arkansas Education Association pushing for a state contribution of $6 million a year and Faubus demanding that the figure be set at $7.6 million for a two-year period. Faubus won.

The House passed companion bills Tuesday to set up a system for traffic violations. The system calls for a six-month suspension of the license of any driver who collects 20 or more points in a three-year period.

Major violations, such as drunken driving or hit and run, would

NEW YORK (AP)—A Navy plane with 14 persons aboard was missing 150 miles southeast of here in the Atlantic today. The Coast Guard said it sighted two life rafts, debris and a dye marker, but that it did not know if there were any survivors.

WASHINGTON (AP)—James H. Meredith has decided to continue his studies at the University of Mississippi, an informed Washington source indicated today.

The source, who has been close to the desegregation crisis at the university, gave the indication in comments shortly before Meredith was to announce his plans at a news conference in Oxford, Miss.

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Two Negro children returned to integrated Dollarway School here today for the first time since racial violence last Tuesday.

Sarah Howard, 15, and Samuel Wayne Cato, 8, returned to classes after the school board issued a statement saying it would protect students from physical violence and punish violators of school discipline.

North Areas of Arkansas Iced Over

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ice glazed much of northern and western Arkansas this morning, bringing traffic to a standstill and forcing some schools to close.

State Police said driving conditions were hazardous in most sections of the state, and probably would become worse.

Ice was reported on Highway 67 from Newport to the Missouri Border, on Highway 63 between Jonesboro and Hardy and on most roads in all northeast Arkansas counties except Benton and Washington State Police said Highway 7 was almost impassable, and said all roads and highways were wet and slick.

All Randolph County schools were closed and many rural schools closed in Boone, Newton, Searcy, Baxter, Marion and Cleburne counties.

The Arkansas River was frozen over at Van Buren.

Occasional very light freezing rain or drizzle was forecast for the northern and western portions tonight, with light rain and drizzle elsewhere.

High temperatures were expected to be in the 20s northwest today and around 40 southeast. Lows of 15 to 20 northwest and around 30 southeast were forecast for tonight.

Overnight lows today ranged from the low 20s to the high 30s. Precipitation was reported in most areas of the state during the 24-hour period ending today at 6 a. m., ranging from freezing drizzle in the north to thunderstorms in the extreme southeast.

Kiwanians Hear About C of C Meet

High officials of several food manufacturing companies will attend the annual membership meeting of Hope Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at Hope City Hall, it was announced by Haskell Jones, president of the local organization.

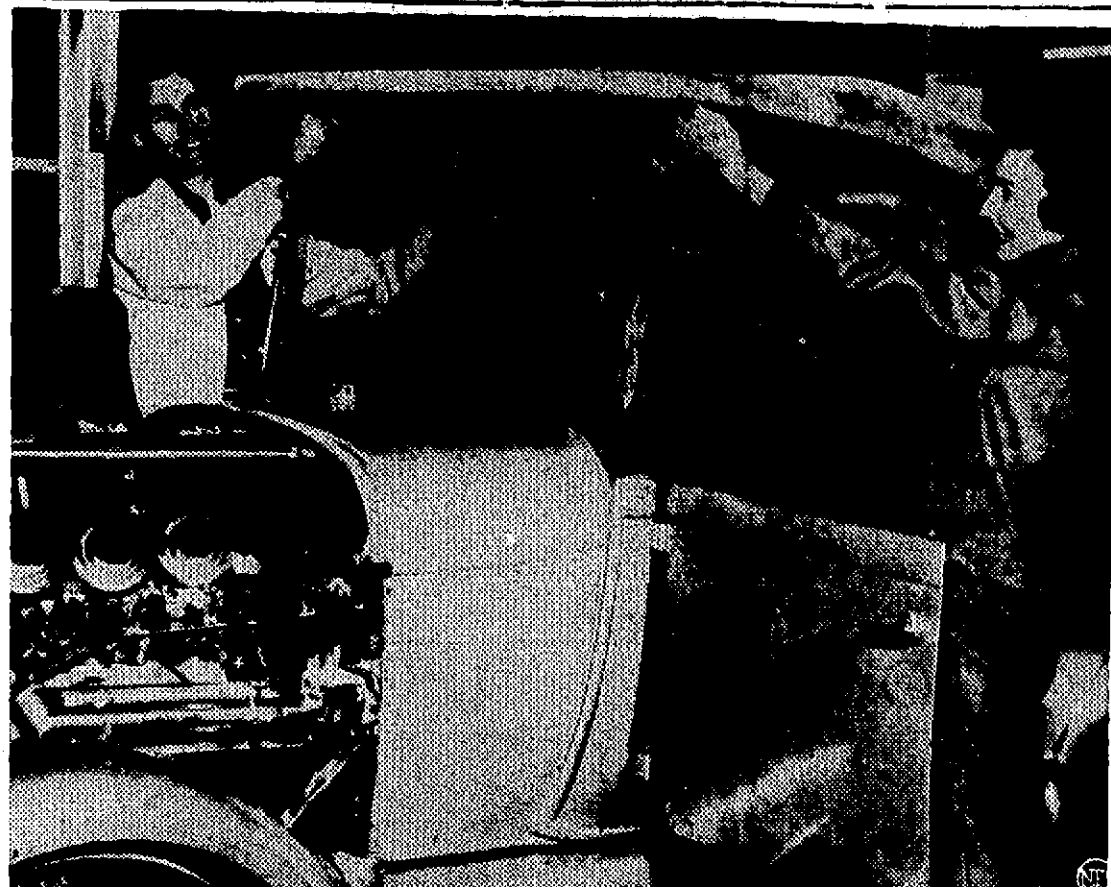

Mr. Jones named the officials during an address Tuesday noon to Hope Kiwanis club. He also announced that William P. Rock, head of the AIDC, along with a half dozen staff members, will attend.

Mr. Jones said the food manufacturing companies were interested in Hempstead County's egg, poultry, beef and vegetable crops.

The new president of the Hope C. of C. outlined an ambitious program for the entire year of 1963 in bringing the chamber of commerce to the public.

On next Tuesday, a one-day membership drive will be conducted in which 360 firms of Hope will be contacted during the day in an effort to raise a $15,000 operating budget. Many workers have been enlisted for the one-day campaign.

Other matters before the Kiwanis club yesterday included the installation of Guy Grigg as vice-president; and the induction of five new members, Dr. George L. Balentine, Mitchell LaGrone, Clarence Gilest, Forrest Singleton and Sid McGee. Kiwanian Jack Lowe had charge of the ceremonies.

FORLORN FISHERMAN — Orlo Briggs of Independence, Kansas, who invested $75 in a new rod and reel three weeks ago, sits on an upturned boat at a frozen-over lake near Independence, hopefully waiting for a thaw. Briggs has not been able to use his new fishing gear because the lake has been covered with a 12 inch coating of ice.

Star to Raise Its Single Copy Price to 10c Feb. 1

Effective Friday, February 1, Hope Star is increasing its single-copy price from present 5c to 10c. Our readers should recognize that this action against buyers of individual copies is long overdue in simple justice to those who subscribe for the newspaper.

The present 5c-per-copy price has stood from the date the old Star of Hope turned from a weekly into a daily, January 1, 1920 — 43 years ago. The circulation prices posted by the Star 1-1-20, as announced by Ed McCorkle, editor and business manager, and A. B. McCorkle, local editor and circulation manager, were: Single copy 5c; yearly subscription in city $5. Today's yearly city subscription is $15.60 — and the time has come when the buyer of individual copies must bear his share of the increase in publishing costs over 43 years.

The 10c single-copy price affects only a little more than 100 of The Star's 3,532 circulation. The street vending machines are being altered in line with the new price. They will accept either a dime or two nickels.

Your co-operation is respectfully asked, that we may give you a larger and better Hope Star for 1963.

Wreck Cuts Off Current in Mine

BENTON, Ark. (AP)—Power was cut off to the Reynolds Mining Co. at Benton briefly Tuesday night after State Trooper Bobby Gunn's patrol car skidded on a patch of ice on Highway 163 and hit a utility pole.

George Wagner, superintendent of operations at the mine, said 40 to 50 men were in the mine when the power went off, but there was no danger to the workers. Gunn was treated at a hospital and released.

Wagner said the men could have stayed in the mine several hours with no trouble. They ride to and from work in electrically powered elevators, he said.

But it came during a work shift," he added. The men have ladders they can use to leave the mines too. It was not an unusual situation.

The downed utility pole held lines carrying a 13,800-volt circuit to the mining firm.

Two Arrested in Case of Kidnaping

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation arrested a 28-year-old man here Tuesday night in its latest move in the kidnaping of Miss Carolyn Coors, 37, Saturday night.

Earlier Tuesday night the FBI in Birmingham, Ala., announced the arrest of Van Ara Barrickman Jr., 51, of Morgantown, W. Va., in the case. Agents said Barrickman would be charged today with violation of the federal kidnaping law, the Lindbergh Act.

Agents here said Charles Huel Lunsford of North Little Rock would be charged either by the FBI today or by North Little Rock police. The FBI said Lunsford was with Barrickman in Little Rock when the two bought a .22 caliber pistol.

He was interrogated by North Little Rock police and FBI agents late Tuesday night and early today.

A tip from an unidentified caller led FBI agents to a railroad station at Birmingham, where they arrested Barrickman.

Special Agent Ray Faist said Barrickman was arrested on a complaint charging him with violation of the Lindbergh Act. He is accused of forcing Miss Coors, 37, to accompany him from Little Rock to Birmingham. No reason has been given for the trip, Faist said.

The FBI at Little Rock said Lunsford was picked out from a lineup of men.

Faist identified the Birmingham tipster only as an alert citizen" and said a description given by Miss Coors led the caller to notify the FBI that a man answering the description was at the station. Agents making a routine check at the station arrested Barrickman.

Faist said Barrickman was armed with a loaded revolver, but offered no resistance. He was using the name Charles William Rogers at the time of his arrest, the agent said.

The FBI at Little Rock said Barrickman had an extensive arrest record in Georgia, Ohio, California, Missouri, Louisiana, Texas and other states.

Miss Coors told officers that two men forced her into her car Sunday night as she left a North Little Rock hospital after visiting her mother. She said one of the men left them in Little Rock and the other drove her to Birmingham.

She said she was released in a Birmingham residential section Monday night and went immediately to a nearby house for assistance.

U.S. Atty. R. Macey Taylor has recommended that Barrickman be held under $25,000 and pending the hearing, Faist said.

Maximum penalty for Barrickman under the Lindbergh Act conviction would be life imprisonment, the FBI said, since Miss Coors was released unharmed.

The FBI said Miss Coors told them she had about $76 on her person, but that her kidnapper took only $6. to pay for gasoline.

Freed of Charges

VAN BUREN, Ark. (AP)—William Campbell, 52, of Locke community near here, was freed from charges in the death of Cecil Frank Williamson Thursday. Municipal Judge Lonnie Batchelor ruled justifiable homicide in the death of Williamson, who was shot four times as he approached Campbell's home.

Future of West Alliance May Hinge on Who Is the Tougher -- DeGaulle or JFK

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP)—The future of the Western Alliance may hinge on the question of who is tougher—youthful President Kennedy or the aging but durable enigma of Europe, President Charles de Gaulle.

The world likely will be witnessing two cold wars within the big one—in the East between the Soviet Union and Red China, in the West between the United States and De Gaulle's France.

Britain's lost battle to join the European Common Market will have repercussions around the world. Obviously it is a severe—though not necessarily fatal—blow to the Western unity for which statesmen labored patiently over the past dozen years.

Three will be cheering in the Kremlin and probably a Soviet attempt to take quick advantage of the breach in the Western front. The Soviet response may take the form of an aggressive new peace offensive, with seemingly genuine gestures on ranking problems, to make it appear that Europe can do business safely with the Communists.

De Gaulle has made clear that he believes Europe should be a force standing between the United States and the Soviet Union, independently, wielding its own nuclear weaponry, even though he has no nuclear weapons to wield yet.

He has made France into a poor partner in NATO—hardly a partner at all. Since France is an important piece of European real estate, De Gaulle's policies already have weakened the Atlantic Alliance.

De Gaulle also has declared Britain unfit to be considered a part of Europe. He champions continentalism, a continent looking inward, paternally guided and directed by its powerful heart—France and Germany.

A spokesman reflecting the French president's views says British Prime Minister Macmillan chose the United States instead of Europe by agreeing to President Kennedy's proposal to arm Britain and France with Polaris missiles. This, to De Gaulle's way of thinking, was accepting U.S. domination to the detriment of Europe.

De Gaulle will remain president of France at least until 1966 if his health holds out. Although 72, he looks hale and hearty. For another three years, therefore, the United States must deal with situations created by his policy.

He has struck a hard blow at the concept of European unity and Atlantic partnership which is the core of President Kennedy's world policy. In Europe, diplomats ask: Can De Gaulle get away with it?

State School Share $6.1 Millions

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal aid to education program introduced to Congress Tuesday by President Kennedy would provide $6.1 million for Arkansas elementary and secondary schools.

The bill proposes that money be allotted to states on a formula taking into account both total population and per capita income. The federal government would spend $400 million in the next fiscal year on such aid if the President's bill is approved.

Under the formula, bit states would receive more total money than little ones, but the poor states would receive more money per person.

The states would spend from 10 to 20 per cent of their allotment on special projects and the remainder on construction and teacher salaries. The special projects could include studies of school dropouts or remedial reading programs.

States would list construction projects in order of need and start work on them in that order. The federal government would pay up to 50 per cent cost of each project.

Defense Chief Wants Europe to Share More

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today the United States does not want to dominate the North Atlantic Treaty Organization but will have to stay in the driver's seat as long as it carries so much of the Western defense load.

We would be happy to share more equitably the heavy burdens we now carry in the collective defense of the free world," McNamara said. But as long as we do carry so great a share we cannot escape carrying a proportionately large share of the responsibility for leadership and direction.

America's allies in Europe should be able to shoulder a bigger share of the burden than they have, he added. McNamara outlined U.S. hopes for the Atlantic Alliance in telling Congress about a five-year defense program designed to handle the Communist threat in situations ranging from guerrilla warfare to nuclear attack.

In lengthy testimony to a closed-door session of the House Armed Services Committee, he estimated the fiscal 1964 spending for all the defense programs at $56 billion. The biggest share, $51 billion, is tagged for the military forces.

In a wide-ranging summary of the present and future U.S. military position, he strongly hinted that the United States would send combat troops into South Viet Nam if the Communists launch an open attack from North Viet Nam. For the first time, he acknowledged the United States now has more than 11,000 military men in Viet Nam advising the native forces.

McNamara told Congress that American strategic might is sufficient to absorb an enemy strike and still destroy the Soviet Union." He said the United States will retaliate in kind" to any Russian nuclear attack, striking back at Soviet cities if American cities are hit.

The defense secretary called for development on an urgent basis" Continued on Page Two

Meredith to Decide Today on Returning

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—James H. Meredith said today he plans to enroll for the spring semester at the University of Mississippi.

The 29-year-old Negro, the first—and still the only—person of his race ever knowingly admitted as a student at the university, made his announcement to newsmen here.

"The Negro is not going," he told his news conference. I, James H. Meredith, am going."

Meredith said in a statement he had pondered the question for several days and had taken into consideration the feelings of people in this country and throughout the world.

I weighed this against my own personal position," he said.

Meredith said three weeks ago that he would not return for the spring semester unless very definite and positive changes are made in his situation, an apparent reference to sporadic outbreaks of harassment on the campus.

Other students also were targets of threatening segregationist students. One was William Jordan Temple, 18-year-old freshman who announced at his home in Washington, D.C., Tuesday he would not return for the second semester.

Temple said students in his dormitory nightly pelted his room with soft drink bottles and, on two occasions, the transom was broken. Temple once ate lunch with Meredith along with three other students who have withdrawn from school.

cost 10 points, so two of these would put a driver on the side-walk.

Pulaski County Rep. Glenn Walther wrote the bills. He also has pending a third bill to appropriate $164,000 to pay for administering the system during the next two years.

Walther's idea may stumble when the money bill comes up. It will need 75 votes to pass. One of his point system bills got 65 votes and the other 65 Tuesday.

Bills to prohibit deposit of state funds in banks which charge a fee for cashing state warrants were introduced in both Houses Tuesday. This was another of Faubus' inaugural proposals.

The House passed 20 bills in a long, busy session. Both houses were to reconvene at 1 p.m. today.

Measures passed by the House included bills to:

Give farmers a refund of the full 6 1/2 cent per gallon state gasoline tax on fuel bought for agricultural purposes. (The refund now is 4 1/2 cents a gallon.)

A bill to require a biennial physical examination for school bus drivers.

A bill to create a seven-member commission to study the state's judicial system and to make recommendations for district reorganization to the 1965 Legislature.

A bill to give the University of Arkansas and state colleges authority to issue revenue bond for construction of parking lots.

A bill to give county judges authority to restrict use of county roads by persons or firms using equipment he thinks may damage the roads unless a $25,000 bond is posted.

The Senate passed House versions of Bills to increase the maximum welfare grant for aged and blind persons from $65 to $85 a month. It had passed its own bills a day earlier. The House bills now are ready for Faubus' signature.

The Senate also passed bills to increase the salary maximum for municipal court clerks from $3,000 to $3,600 a year and to remove a requirement that a municipal judge must be a resident of the city in which the court is held even when he is elected by a countywide vote. Under the bill, the judge may live anywhere in the county.

House introductions Tuesday included bills to:

Change the date of the annual school election from early December to the last Tuesday in September. The author of this bill, Rep. Edward Works of Dallas County, withdrew an earlier bill which would have set school elections on the general election date in November.

Require newspapers to identify the author of editorials, either at the beginning or end of the item.

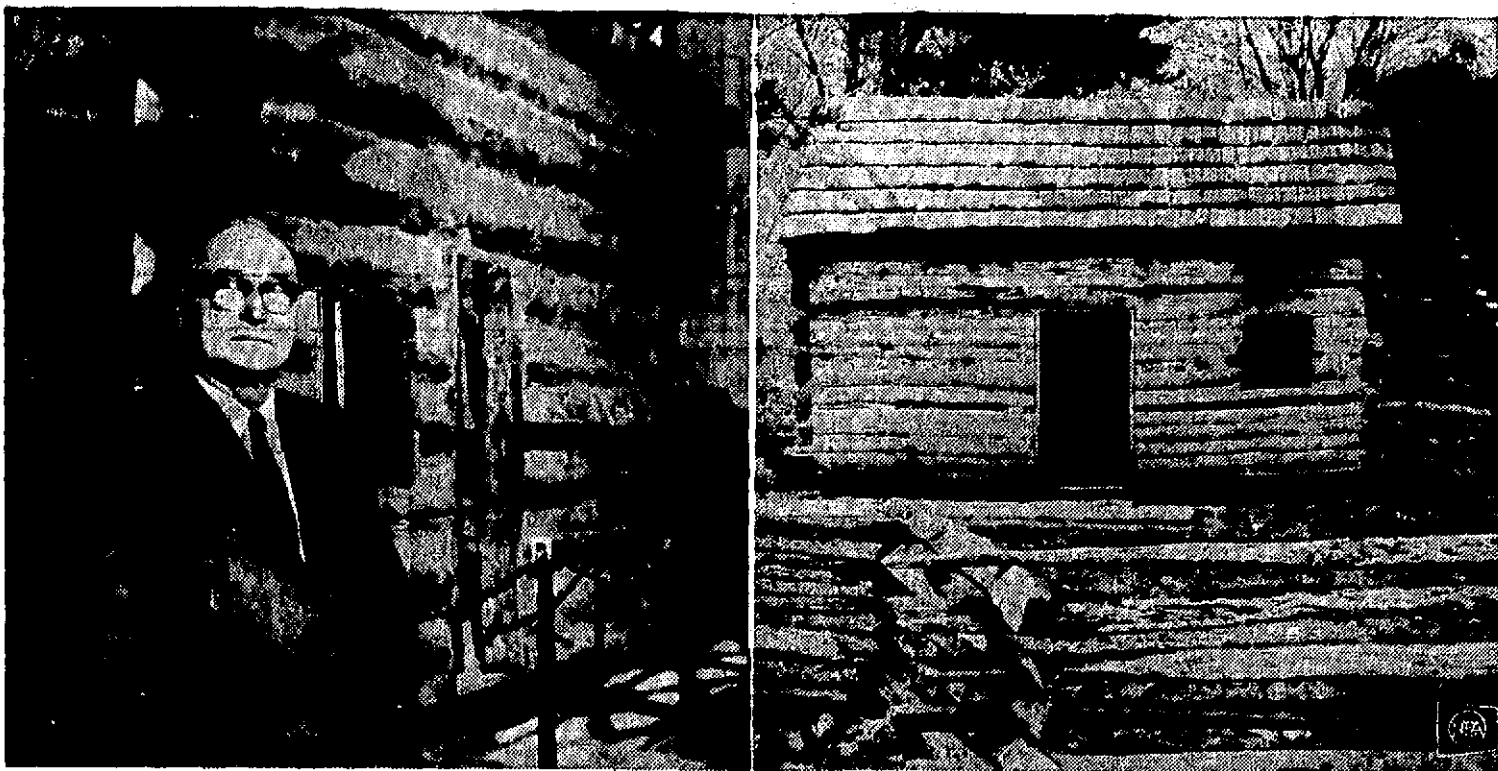

Set up a state board to regulate collection agencies.

Redefine intoxicating liquor as a beverage with 3.2 per cent (now 5 per cent) alcohol by volume.

The Senate received a bill to authorize the Highway Department to building parking areas in state parks.

Each house got a flock of appropriations bills worked out by the joint budget committee in line with budgets approved by the Legislative Council. The Senate's bills included appropriations for the University and Arkansas and seven state colleges.

These figures included: University of Arkansas, including the Medical Center, $10,965,000 a year; Arkansas A&M $1,163,000 a year; Arkansas State Teachers $1,108,000; Arkansas State $1,611,000, including $117,000 for its Beebe Branch; Henderson $1,041,000; to a new missile to defend the United States against intercontinental ballistic missile attack.

He sketched a radical new concept for organization and use of airborne infantrymen, one he said would be particularly valuable for conflicts in areas outside of Europe.

He said an increasing military strain on the Soviet economy might tend to limit the size and help determine the character of the Soviet military program, at least over the next few years.

He forecast that Red China will seek to expand its own influence in the Communist camp and among the unaligned nations, resorting to armed aggression to satisfy its ambitions only where this can be done without a direct confrontation of U.S. military forces.

Our principal concern in the years ahead must be the dangers of an ICBM or submarine-launched missile attack, and the main thrust of our efforts should be redirected to meet these rising threats," McNamara said in a discussion of U.S. air defenses. In this area we are in better shape with respect to warning than to active defense," he said. It is now generally agreed that the Nike-Zeus system currently being tested would not be effective against a sophisticated threat in the late 1960s or early 1970s.

McNamara asked for a $246-million authorization to press development of the Nike-X, an advanced antimissile missile which would have an improved radar system and a speedier rocket booster. He requested a total of $450 million for antimissile research and development work.

I believe that the matter of antimissile defense is so important that we must make every effort to develop an effective system, even if we cannot now make a decision to procure and deploy it," McNamara said.

He called for an increase of 15,000 men in the Army's permanent personnel ceiling to organize provisional units to test some new concepts.

The additional strength would provide men to be organized into new air assault divisions, highly mobile units which would be assigned about 480 helicopters and Army airplanes.

He said the Pentagon plans a substantial increase in procurement of Army aircraft, to increase troop mobility and prepare for tests of the new units.

Hodges May Be Coach for Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — If 38-year-old Gil Hodges can't drag his aching legs out to first base next season, he'll probably wind up as a coach for the New York Mets.

If he can't make it from the shoulders down because of his bad knee," rasped Manager Casey Stengel today, then I don't see why we can't take advantage of what he has from the shoulders up."

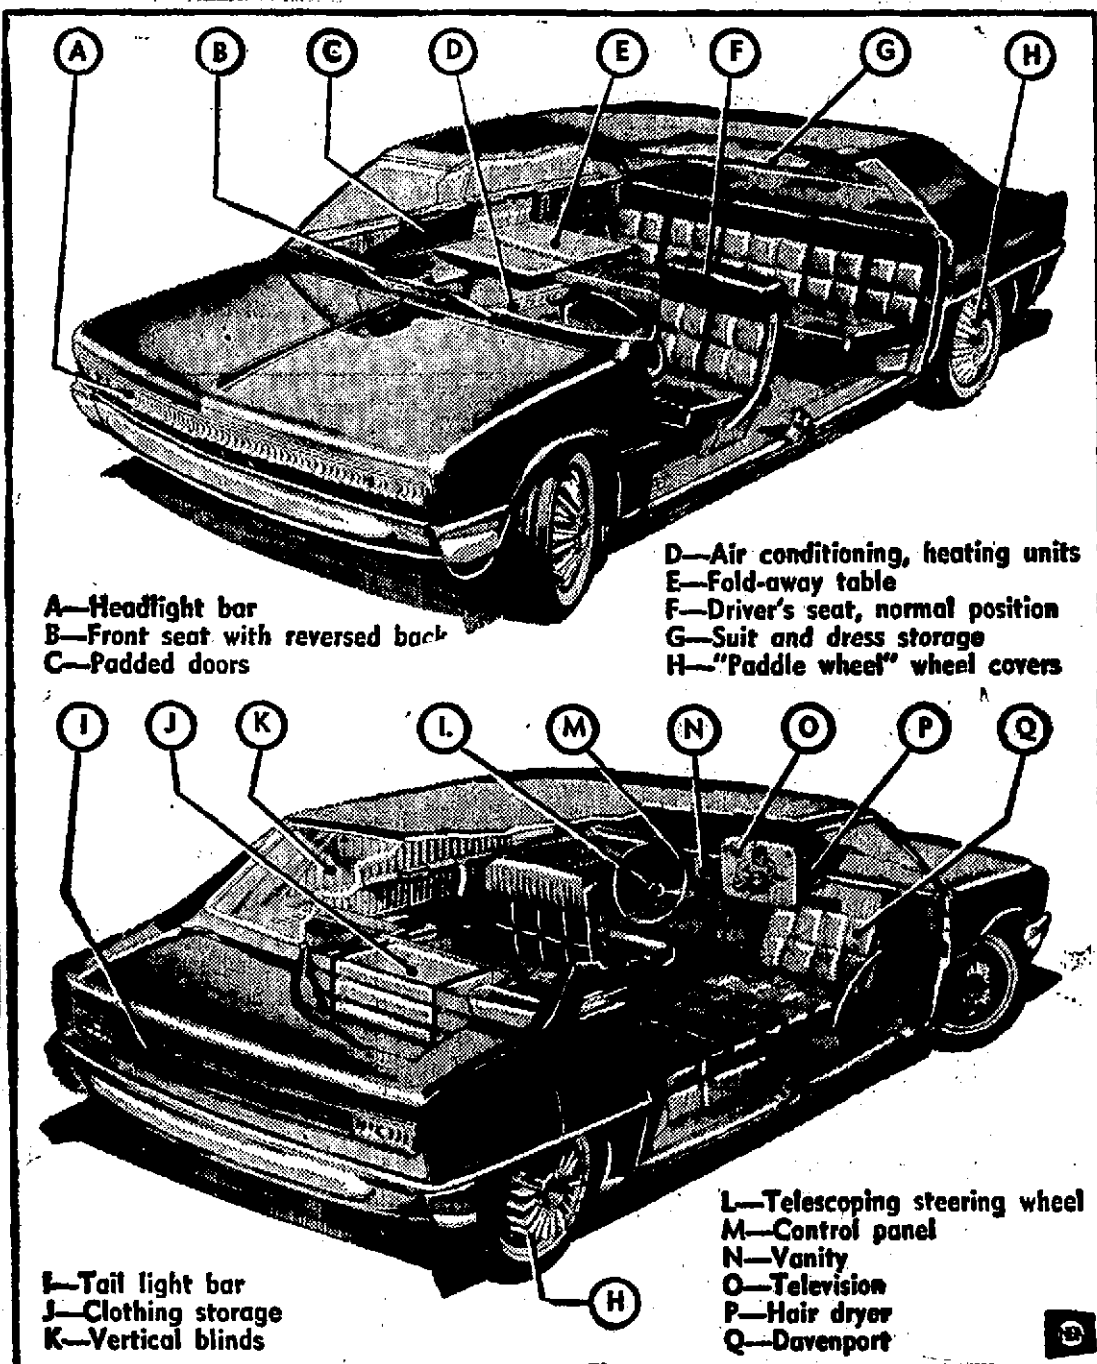

Hodges underwent surgery for the removal of a cartilage on his left knee late last season, but he'd like to give it a try and Stengel would like to see him on first base, too.

If Gil isn't crippled, I may alternate him with Tim Lincecum at first base," Stengel said. He also pointed out that he had 18-year-old bonus baby Ed Kranepool waiting in the wings for a chance.

Southern State Loan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approval of an $800,000 loan to Southern State College of Magnolia, Ark. was announced Tuesday by the Community Facilities Administration. The funds will go for construction of a men's dormitory and for air conditioning. The contract for the 192-man hall has been awarded to Texarkana Construction Co.

Arkansas Tech $872,000; Southern State $797,000, and Arkansas A&M $728,000.

LIVING ROOM ON WHEELS—"Auto Familia," the family car of the not-too-distant future as conceived by industrial designer Brooks Stevens, is shown in cutaway drawings above. The car would be truly a living room on wheels—air conditioned, with television for back-seat riders, pull-out tables, vanity table, clothes storage compartments and sleeping couches, among other things. As envisioned by Stevens, the car would be 165 inches long and powered by fuel cells in each of its wheels, thus saving space and eliminating the dashboard with its engine gauges. The car would even be able to float on water; "paddle wheels" in the wheel covers would provide the propulsion.

Situation Has Changed in India

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Private secretaries bustle in and out of the cluttered office-sitting room in the little house across the street from Prime Minister Nehru's residence. Frequently a secretary signals a call on the specially made telephone, inscribed Presented to Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon.

The intensity with which the wiry man answers calls—scowling and speaking curtly or smiling and turning on his charm—is the same. But the atmosphere has changed since Menon was forced out of Nehru's Cabinet.

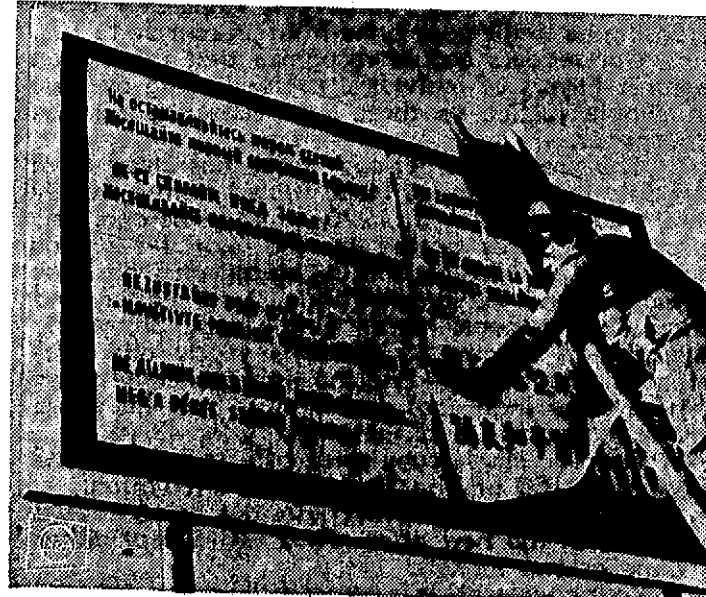

The sense of power and national urgency is gone. The sense of political maneuvering remains as he keeps busy making speeches.

Since he became just another member of Parliament last November, Menon has been campaigning around India like no ordinary member. In fact, although not technically, he leads his own political party—a collection of leftists members of the Congress party and independent leftists with strong Communist support.

Menon works closely with the people who also work with Communists. His cause is championed by publications, some with mysterious financing, which also back Communist causes.

It is an open question whether Menon really controls this ill-defined but clearly aimed group. Some observers have suggested in the past that the pro-Communists supported Menon only because he looked as if he had a chance of taking over the Indian government after Nehru.

The fact that they have not deserted him since his dismissal from the Cabinet could mean they have nowhere else to go. More likely, it means that at the age of 65 Menon still is not to be counted

DeGaulle May Seek Split by U.S., British

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The crucial question being debated in Washington today is whether French President Charles de Gaulle will follow up his Common Market defeat of Great Britain with a campaign to break Western Europe's close ties with the United States.

De Gaulle's veto Tuesday of Britain's bid for membership in the market is regarded here as a severe setback to the U.S. campaign for increasing unity within the North Atlantic alliance.

A De Gaulle drive to split Europe apart from the United States—or as one authority put it to get the United States out of Europe—could be little short of disastrous.

The question of what De Gaulle will do next is one of several troubling U.S. leaders in the aftermath of the Brussels showdown.

The official policy line taken by administration informants is that the United States intends to go ahead with a broad program for reducing trade barriers, including tariff negotiations with the six-nation Common Market. The administration also intends to carry forward plans for formation of a North Atlantic Treaty Organization nuclear striking force built around the Polaris submarine missile.

But officials said today that until the dust settles it is difficult for them to see exactly the best way to proceed.

Administration officials rule out for the time being at least, any sort of U.S. retaliatory action against France.

Commentator Visits Five Countries

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—NBC's rambling reporter, David Brinkley, spent part of last summer in five of the world's smallest countries, a piece of enterprising television journalism.

His filmed report, enlivened by witty, incisive comment, was shown Monday night in one of Brinkley's "Our Man" series. Last season, Brinkley did a similar report on Vienna, with such emphasis on its rich food and leisurely life that "Our Man in Vienna" drew some fire from loyal Viennese. There could be some such repercussion after the Brinkley comments on such tourist landmarks as Monaco and San Marino, where the industries are largely tourists and postage stamps.

One complainant might be rival CBS, which has an hour special on Monaco coming up next month—a guided tour by Princess Grace herself.

Brinkley seemed less impressed by Monaco's historic landmarks and glamorous history than by the fact its public information officer is a Hollywood press agent; that NBC couldn't take pictures inside the royal palace—CBS could and did—because Prince Rainier and his princess sold the television rights to themselves and the palace to the Music Corporation of America for $300,000; that Rainier financed his wedding to the American movie star by issuing a new postage stamp of the wedding.

San Marino was another tiny country on his itinerary whose major income comes from postage stamps and that seasonal activity Brinkley described as skinning the tourists—and his attitude seems to be that they de-

Fire Destroys Newport Bldgs.

NEWPORT, Ark. (AP)—Three cafes, an antique store and an unoccupied building were destroyed in a fire on the lower end of Main Street here Sunday.

No one was injured. Firemen fought the blaze for four hours. They said it apparently started in one of the cafes where frozen water pipes were being thawed with a blow torch.

Mrs. Frank McCartney and Leo Saenger, owners of the property, said part of the damage would be covered by insurance. They declined to estimate the loss.

A feedstore near the destroyed businesses was damaged by smoke and water.

Route 66 Player to Return Soon

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—George Maharis, who has been off CBS' "Route 66" since last Nov. 6, recuperating from hepatitis and exhaustion caused by returning to work too soon, is beginning to feel better. But he won't return to his costarring part until he is completely well.

"I don't know when that will be," Maharis said. It might be two months or it might be six. But no matter how long it takes, I won't go back until I am well."

Meanwhile, the adventure series about two young men and a sports car continues to roll along with half its cylinders missing. Martin Milner, Maharis' costar, will be traveling alone for awhile, although so far, Maharis' absence has been concealed rather well.

The ailing Maharis is still bitter about what he considers strong pressures to push him back into the show, which is filmed on locations all over the country.

"I'd like to get back to work," he said, "but my doctors say it isn't wise yet — not traveling around the country, living in motels and not being near doctors who can watch me. When I feel 100 per cent, I'll be ready to work 100 per cent."

NBC, in an effort to strengthen its daytime programming, (whose ratings have been running a poor second to CBS) will drop "The Merv Griffin Show" and "Young Doctor Malone," one of the oldest soap operas, on March 29.

"They will be replaced April 1 by a new series, set in a children's hospital, about a young pediatrician; by an adventure series about a young criminal lawyer and by a new audience-participation game show.

The saddest aspect of the shift is the cancellation of the Griffin show, patterned after Jack Paar's old program, which started this fall to the most enthusiastic critical notices of any new NBC program, day or night.

The game show, "You Don't Say" will have a panel (including the usual celebrities, of course) identifying familiar personalities from incomplete sentences. It will be produced in Hollywood by Desilu-Lucille Ball's production company's first try in this area.

Merv Griffin and Young Dr. Malone have fiercely loyal fans, and NBC is going to get some violent complaints.

serve skinning. In Andorra he investigated smuggling, to France and Spain, which he called a major industry. He accompanied a pair of smugglers loaded with wine and cigarettes as they started in broad daylight over the mountains to France.

It was a swell show.

Made for each other, but smart enough to succeed alone are these handsome spring two-piece costumes. Matching color and contrasting textures are the keynotes of this pale blue ensemble (left). Silk pongee dress has three-quarter sleeves and gently bloused bodice. The sweater-coat is fluffy cotton-mohair. Black and white houndstooth-check coat (center) has a slight flair, and double-breasted closing. It is teamed with a slim sleeveless shift of white jersey. Both are Andrea A. designs. Quilt knit coat (right) is worn over a double-knit shift with round neckline. Coat collar stands out slightly to reveal full neckline of shift. These knits are Dalton of America designs.

DOROTHY DIX

Boy Sees Himself As Love Burglar

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Our five children, three girls and two boys, are grown and married. We have always been very close as a family, especially when one needs the other. But none of us can find the answer to the problem of our younger boy's pretty wife.

They met when he has just returned from a tour of duty in the service and, with his sisters and brother married, felt like an outsider in all their plans. That's why he succumbed so easily.

I treated her as if she were my own and when her first baby came, it was I—not her mother—who went to the hospital with her.

Soon after, we moved to another state. Our elder son and his family followed, then our daughters with their husbands and children. That left our younger boy, his wife and baby alone.

He longed to join us but she refused to budge, despite the fact that his Daddy, an architect, had plenty of work for him here in this up-and-coming community. Finally, when we kept writing about how well we were all doing, she reluctantly agreed to the move. But all she did here was nag, nag, nag our boy into going back. Loving her, he went.

Friends wrote that if we could give them a home of their own, our daughter-in-law might be satisfied. So we did just that—gave them our home on a duvall, another for ourselves. Still she pines for the old town.

My husband refuses to have anything to do with her or him. It is breaking our boy's heart. Now her folks are advising her to leave our son, take the children (they have three), and come home to them. Should we encourage the divorce? —Worried Mother

Dear Worried: Divorce is not the answer. Give your young son's marriage a chance to survive by remaining aloof. Apparently neither he nor his wife has yet matured. What they so desperately need is the discipline that life is striving to administer.

Stop interfering. Let them shoulder their own responsibilities and, in the doing, develop self-reliance and character. Apparently your daughter-in-law instinctively rebels against interference else she would have welcomed the move. A friendly word of warning to her parents on this subject would be in order. Tell them that you and your husband are pursuing the same hands-off policy because you want to see their daughter and your son make a go of it for their own, as well as their children's sake. Your husband is right. Cut the ties! Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my two leaflets, mother-in-law" and Daughters-in-law."

Dear Helen: Three years ago I fell in love with a boy who is half Indian. He was crazy about me from the start but acted unhappy. I asked why, when this should be the most joyous time of our lives.

He put his head on my shoulder, cried like a baby, then said, "I'm going back to prison to pay for a wrong I did. I've turned myself in so we can marry without anything to run from." He is now serving six years.

When he left he asked me to carry his name so everybody would know I belonged to him and he to me. This I did, though we aren't married as folks believe us to be. Did I do wrong? With good behavior, he should be home this month. —Trying To Do Right

Dear Trying: You did a tremendous thing when you inspired this Indian boy to be his best self. To stand by him once he showed the courage to confess his crime and willingly face the consequences is even greater. Be serene in the knowledge that you both have earned the right to carry his name proudly. Marry and make it real as soon as possible.

Dear Helen: My steady wants a love affair with me. He is 20, I am 19. He threatens to break up if I don't say yes. I told him I wasn't that kind of girl. This started a big fight. He said it would be goodbye. I said, "Okay," jumped out of his car he was parking it and slammed the door. Now I sit home night after night and cry. My parents are taking me to a doctor because I won't eat. Was I wrong to say no to this boy? —Heartbroken

Dear Heartbroken: Was the boy carried away by the emotion of the moment, or just being a heel? Did you lead him on? Truthful answers to these questions will help you solve your problem.

If you think he really cares, write him a short note saying that the relationship which he asks is not one which brings happiness. If, on the other hand, you feel he is callous, good riddance, even if you had to slam the car door. But, if you led him on, then you're as much to blame as he and not as virtuous as it would appear.

Should this be the case, profit by the experience and get on with the real business of life which in your case and at your age should be studying for a college degree, working at home or finding a job.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Medicare Money
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Welfare Department said Tuesday Arkansas spent $79,032 in December for the care of 1,959 persons 65 years old or over. The department said the money was spent under the Medical Care for the Aged program and did not include another $21,316 spent on nursing home care for the aged. The state spent $87,774 under the program in November, the department said.

Success Story With Puzzle at the End

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The menu for today, dear reader, is a true-life success story with a puzzle at the end.

The puzzle is whether you can guess which—but first, read on: Once upon a time—about 30 years ago—two young fellows roomed in the same boarding house at a Midwest university. America was still in the stubborn grip of the greatest depression of the 20th century.

Times were really rough. You could eat on 35 cents a day if you had to. You never bought a new pair of shoes until the ones you were wearing had been broken and knotted together in at least four places.

When the two young fellows graduated, one said: "There's nothing in the way of opportunity out here. I'm going to seek fame and fortune in the big city. I hear there's a dollar to be made there for every light on Broadway."

The other fellow said: "I think I'll go back and settle down in my home town where people know me. Something'll turn up sooner or later."

Well, both these young men let's call one Mr. Home Town and the other Mr. Metropolis—carried out their decisions. Thirty years later Mr. Home Town phoned Mr. Metropolis and said, "I'll be in Manhattan next Friday. How about us getting together for dinner?"

He and Mr. Home Town reminisced about old times on the campus as they gulped and chewed their way through two highballs, steaks, after dinner brandy—Mr. Home Town really seemed to want to live it up, and Mr. Metropolis felt rather sorry for him and coffee.

How have things been going with you?" asked Mr. Home Town.

Fingering the bills in his pocket and wondering whether they'd cover the tab, Mr. Metropolis said he had one child, lived in a small but comfortable apartment in an area where there hadn't been a knife stabbing in six months. He said he didn't drive a car, rode the subway, had a pretty good job and hoped if he could hold it to 65 to be able to save enough to retire and move back to his own old home town.

And what about you?" he then asked.

Oh, I've got seven kids, said Mr. Home Town. I invested in a transportation company that did $20 million last year. But, of course, that's not my main interest.

What is your main interest?" asked Mr. Metropolis.

Oh, I'd say it probably was banking.

How big is your bank?" "Which one? I've got four."

As he reached for the restaurant check and opened a wallet stuffed with $50 bills, Mr. Home Town remarked:

You know, I envy you the cultural advantages you've gained by living in a place like New York all these years. I'm still a country bumpkin. My wife and I get to 65 years old or over. The department said the money was spent under the Medical Care for the Aged program and did not include another $21,316 spent on nursing home care for the aged. The state spent $87,774 under the program in November, the department said.

Explorer 1 Whirling Silently

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Explorer 1, the one-time chatterbox which discovered the Van Allen radiation belt, whirled silently around the earth today on its fifth birthday.

The 30.8-pound cylinder long ago lost its radio voice, but it reigns as the oldest man-made inhabitant in space. The two Soviet Sputniks which preceded it into orbit no longer are aloft.

Advancements have been spectacular since Explorer 1 placed the United States firmly in the space race with the Soviet Union on Jan. 31, 1958.

The United States has launched an almost unbelievable total of more than 110 successful satellites and deep space probes. Soviet scientists have sent up 31.

The Soviet Union's future plans are looked in secrecy. But the step-by-step U.S. program has been laid out clearly for the next decade.

America's major goal is to land astronauts on the moon before the Russians and to do it before 1970. A so-called ideal launching date of Jan. 14, 1967, at 3:34 p.m. Cape Canaveral time, has been considered as a potential goal for the Apollo lunar flight. If this date is met and most planners doubt it will within 10 years after Explorer 1 shot into the sky.

The ideal time is based on relative positions of the earth and moon; illumination conditions in the chosen landing area near the Sabine Crater; predicted solar radiation activity, and expected readiness of a booster rocket, a capsule and numerous other ingredients.

Before the three-man Apollo

Can you guess which of these two young men was the one who came to the big city 30 years ago to make his fortune and enjoy the finer life me or the other fellow?

team is moon-bound, a number of critical milestones must be passed, a number of problems solved.

To gain further experience in prolonged space flight, astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. is scheduled to make what may be the final Project Mercury ride next April 2, an intended 34-hour mission.

This will be the longest U.S. manned space trip to date, but far short of the record 94-hour, 55-minute flight of Soviet cosmonaut Andrian Nikolayev.

In 1964, the two-man Gemini craft is to start a series of flights intended to keep astronauts in space for periods up to two weeks and to check techniques for rendezvousing with other orbiting craft. Perfection of rendezvous is essential for Apollo lunar flight.

Meanwhile, unmanned packets of instruments will continue to explore space, the moon and the planets. Ranger and Surveyor vehicles are to orbit and land on the moon to investigate thoroughly the selected Apollo landing area.

Development is proceeding on the mighty Saturn C5 rocket, whose 7.5 million pounds of thrust is to carry the Apollo moonship.

The man entrusted with molding Saturn and overtaking the Soviet Union's rocket power advantage is the same who headed the team which launched Explorer 1—former German rocket expert Werner von Braun.

The cost of landing men on the moon will be staggering. Original estimates ran as high as $40 billion. But James E. Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, reported earlier this month that the price tag will be under $20 billion. In the next few years an estimated 300,000 persons in hundreds of plants across the nation will be involved in preparing for the lunar flight.

Some U.S. experts doubt that the Soviet Union can devote as much money, resources and manpower to such a program without seriously sacrificing needed production in other areas. But others point out that the Soviets have pulled surprises before in space and that the race to the moon should be an interesting one.

No Progress in New York Paper Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—A series of city hall mediation meetings recessed at 3:55 a.m. today with no reported progress in attempts to end this city's $2-day-old shutdown of nine major newspapers.

The mediation effort, led by Mayor Robert F. Wagner, recessed until midafternoon after three sessions totaling 13½ hours. It followed a 13-hour City Hall negotiation meeting Saturday, also with no progress reported in attempts to end a printers' strike.

The mayor gave orders to both sides not to comment for publication on any issues discussed within the meetings.

We have an understanding," Wagner said, that we will not discuss substantive issues with newsmen. We can only talk on procedures."

The publishers' representatives, union officials and a federal mediator all left City Hall within minutes of one another and all declined comment on the negotiations.

Wagner reported that both sides had made sincere effort to end the strike by Local 66 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union. Everyone cooperated," he said. He declined comment on whether progress had been made toward reaching a settlement.

The talks resumed at noon Sunday.

We had a long day," said federal mediator Stephen I. Schlossberg. "We're all tired."

Wagner was following the format set by the mayor of Cleveland, Ohio, who intervened in negotiations there to settle strikes that have closed down that city's two daily newspapers for 60 days.

Talks between the striking Cleveland Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO and management of the Plain Dealer and Press & News resumed at 2 p.m. in the office of Mayor Ralph S. Locher.

Besides talks with the guild and the independent Teamsters Union, which also is striking the two Cleveland papers, publishers also are negotiating with 10 other unions in Nevada. He coupled this action with a warning that the United States will never again agree to a long unpoliced ban on tests.

We are maintaining the capability and readiness to resume our test program at any time," the President's statement said.

This declaration no doubt was a reminder to the Soviets that the United States intends not to be caught short again—as it was in September 1961 when the U.S.S.R. broke a three-year unwritten moratorium by resumed testing.

The prospects for a test ban treaty hinge heavily on the issue of underground tests. Blasts in the atmosphere are relatively easy to detect. But without on-the-spot inspection there is no certain way to distinguish between earth shocks caused by underground nuclear blasts and those due to earthquakes or other natural causes.

In a radio and television interview Sunday night Secretary of State Dean Rusk reiterated the U.S. view that two or three on-site inspections are not enough. There also must be effective arrangements for policing such an agreement, he said, particularly in the vast Asian land mass.

The Western allies have insisted that eight to 10 inspections are necessary as safeguards against clandestine testing.

Kennedy's announcement that U.S. underground tests are being suspended got a mixed reaction on Capitol Hill.

They entered the nuclear lab and went to the little reception room. They sat down, while Stroup finished his cigarette.

Chet and Belle weren't what you'd call similar types. Chet was introspective, not a very warm man and didn't make friends. No close friends anyhow. Belle was outgoing. But they got along pretty well, and I suppose they were in love. But sledding must have been pretty bad the first years they were here. That was why Belle took up radio as a hobby. She'd been a radio engineer, you know, and she kept her license. She helped organize our ham club. She got interested in amateur television. There are television hams, you know, and I don't mean actors. People who have amateur television setups. But it was an expensive hobby and she settled for a closed circuit outfit she built herself. You don't have to have a license for closed circuit."

Dr. Stroup puffed on his cigarette, then continued: There was a rumor that Chet and Belle had a falling out. I never believed it, although Belle did leave to visit her mother. But before that, suddenly Chet took an interest in radio. He didn't have time for it, but I think he did it in order to please his wife, who must have been lonely.

Chet isn't the kind of man who can take up anything half-way. He goes whole hog. It's like I was explaining about human limits. Some people must operate at full capacity, or near it all the time, because their lower limit is so close to their peak. Chet read books on theory and practice of radio; he studied television; he even got into radar. First thing I knew he came up with an idea for three-dimension television — and come to think of it, it was pretty close to that patent that was just issued."

Did he do anything with it?" Matt asked.

Stroup put out his cigarette.

One more thing, Doc," said Matt. "Who, besides you, has a key to the back door of the nuclear lab?"

Stroup thought a moment. Chet had one, and the maintenance department has a couple of spares. For janitors and repairmen. Maybe night watchmen have keys. That's all, I think."

Could anybody get their hands on these?"

Not easily. They can't get mine, if that's what you mean. I think the others have to be checked in and out whenever they're used. If anybody borrowed one to unlock the back door of the lab, there'd be a record of it and the cops must have checked that."

Nobody used your key?"

If I wasn't naive, I'd think you suspected me of murder. No, Mr. Private Snoop, I was here in the lab all afternoon the day Chet died. A dozen people can prove it. It's a lot simpler to believe that the killer used Chet's own key when he took the body out the back way."

That's it, then?"

That's my story."

It's The Truth

The village of Waterloo was half a league away from the scene of action, according to Victor Hugo in Les Miserables. Maps in the Encyclopedia Americana verify this, showing various other towns and villages directly involved.

Sooner Dwarf
Is Exciting
Oklahoma Fans

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The "daring Sooner dwarf" is the appellation Oklahoma fans use to describe 5-foot-9 Eddie Evans, heralded as the most exciting player in the University's 56-year basketball history.

Evans lived up to his public notice Tuesday night as he helped the Sooners upset Kansas State 81-75 in the Big Eight Conference. The Negro senior scored 18 points on 6 field goals and 6 of 8 free throws.

Oklahoma's victory was virtually the only surprise on a national program that saw just one team in the Associated Press Top Ten go into action.

In that one, the third-ranked Duke Blue Devils whipped South Carolina 88-70 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Drake, looking ahead to its Thursday meeting with top-ranked Cincinnati, snapped a six-game losing streak and won its first Missouri Valley Conference game by defeating Bradley 79-72. Iowa State won its fifth straight by defeating Missouri 78-66 in a Big Eight fray.

Virginia Tech turned back George Washington 79-75 in the Southern Conference and Morehead tumbled Eastern Kentucky 87-72 in the Ohio Valley Conference.

In non-conference games Holy Cross beat Dartmouth 87-70. St. Bonaventure upended Providence 83-71. Villanova edged Duquesne 49-45. Houston whipped Texas Christian 87-71. Connecticut defeated Boston University 90-76. Miami of Florida nipped Tampa 78-76. Seton Hall took Long Island 71-61. Texas walloped Trinity of Texas 88-54. Xavier of Ohio humbled Bellarmine 73-56. Montana State whipped Orange State 75-58. Fresno outlasted University of Pacific 79-50 and Los Angeles Loyola turned back Portland 66-58.

Grants Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Welfare Department announced Tuesday that the average old-age assistance grant during January totaled $62.55, an increase of $11.05 from a year ago. Jim Phillips, acting welfare commissioner, said 56,333 persons drew old-age benefits this month, compared to 56,158 a year ago. January payments totaled $3,523, up from the January, 1962 total of $3,135, he said.

When to Fish or Hunt
Solunar
Tables

By John Alden Knight

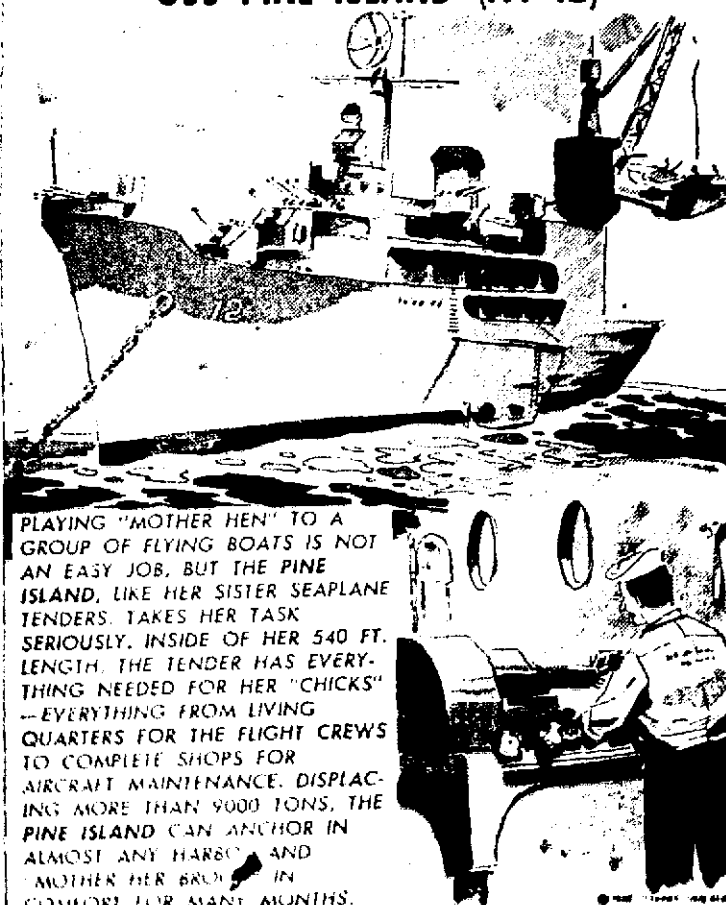

The schedule of Solunar periods as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major periods are shown in bold face type. These begin at the time shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The minor periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

USS PINE ISLAND (AV-12)

PLAYING "MOTHER HEN" TO A GROUP OF FLYING BOATS IS NOT AN EASY JOB, BUT THE PINE ISLAND, LIKE HER SISTER SEAPLANE TENDERS, TAKES HER TASK SERIOUSLY. INSIDE OF HER 540 FT. LENGTH, THE TENDER HAS EVERYTHING NEEDED FOR HER "CHICKS"—EVERYTHING FROM LIVING QUARTERS FOR THE FLIGHT CREWS TO COMPLETE SHOPS FOR AIRCRAFT MAINTENANCE. DISPLACING MORE THAN 9000 TONS, THE PINE ISLAND CAN ANCHOR IN ALMOST ANY HARBOR AND COMFORT FOR MANY MONTHS.

Champs to Judge
Golden Gloves

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—Fort Smith Golden Gloves competition has produced three champions of Kansas City, and two of them will be judges for the 22nd annual tournament here Friday, Saturday and Feb. 9.

Windy Morris was middleweight champion at Kansas City in 1964-47-48 although he weighed 152 pounds.

Charley Core, who fought for Fort Smith out of Clarksville, won the lightweight title at Kansas City in 1947. They will act as judges along with Lawson Cloninger and Clyde Watts.

Tommy Montgomery, the third champion, won the lightweight crown at Kansas City in 1953. He now coaches at Pine Bluff.

No Further
Probe in Pro Ranks

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The playing rules occupied the National Football League today after Commissioner Pete Rozelle reported there would be no further betting investigation.

Rozelle said once again that he was continuing his probe and would make a complete report only when the investigation had been finished.

The league beamed at record attendance figures of 4,003,421 for 1962, led by the New York Giants' total of 439,456 for seven straight sellouts at Yankee Stadium. It was the first time the NFL had gone over 4 million paid attendance, almost doubling the figures of 10 years ago.

The most important rule change suggested would eliminate the possibility of a safety being scored on a penalty. This happened twice in 1962 and was the decisive factor in Pittsburgh's 30-23 victory over Dallas. End zone penalties against the defensive team now are enforced from the spot of the foul. If the rule is changed, officials would enforce the penalty from the line of scrimmage.

Golfers in Final Play
in California

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, the defending champion, and his fellow professionals, began the last stand in California's 1963 winter golfing gold rush today as play opened in the $50,000 Palm Springs Classic.

The tournament had its unique characteristics. It goes for five rounds and 90 holes of golf.

Palmer, who won most everything in the sport except the National Open last year, led off this year by winning the Los Angeles Open. In this one he will not only be the defending titleholder but also the man who won it two out of its three years. He figures to be the man to beat again.

On deck was an unwieldy field of 128 professionals and 384 amateurs with play spread over four country club courses in this desert playground.

The winning purse for the pros

Mid-Arkansas
Golden Gloves
Starts Saturday

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The finals of the Mid-Arkansas Golden Gloves will begin at 8 p.m. here Saturday and you can take all bets right now: There'll be a Guajardo at Memphis.

He'll be Johnny Guajardo, an open division lightweight.

Guajardo went to the Mid-South Golden Gloves tournament at Memphis last year as a welterweight and lost. He trimmed down to 133 pounds this year. He won't have an opponent in the finals Saturday.

Jerry Sheeks, a gritty bantamweight from Pine Bluff, also is unopposed, and he'll make the trip to the Mid-South.

There's a good chance that some other Guajardos will be on hand at Memphis.

Larry Guajardo will fight Fred Norwood of Pine Bluff in the novice flyweight division, Alex Guajardo will battle Larry Murray of Pine Bluff in the open flyweight and Paul Guajardo will go against Stencil Taylor of Conway in the open featherweight class.

The Guajardos, brothers, fight for the North Little Rock Boys Club. Alex and Larry are twins.

The finals are shaping up as a battle between the North Siders and El Dorado for team honors. El Dorado has five men in the finals and North Little Rock has four.

One of the El Dorado pugilists has made a big impression on Paul Holderfield, the North Little Rock coach.

He weighs about 230 and doesn't have an ounce of fat on him," Holderfield said. Man, I'm telling you, that boy can punch."

He was referring to Don Henson, who was an All-Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference football guard for Southern State College at Magnolia in 1961. Henson is fighting in the novice division. He'll meet Eddie Chandler of Conway Saturday night.

Two other top fights will be in the heavier divisions. In one, knockout artist James Rankin of Pine Bluff will battle veteran Jim Newberry, who cut his teeth in Little Rock but has fought for North Little Rock the last couple of years. It will be a light heavyweight match.

Larry (Santa Claus) Harrison of North Little Rock meets Butch Shaver of El Dorado in a stand-out heavyweight battle.

The Pairings
Novice Division

Larry Guajardo, NLRBC vs. Fred Norwood, Pine Bluff, flyweight.

War Collection

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Numismatic Society said Tuesday it will help raise $1,000 needed to catalog, frame and display at Little Rock a collection of Civil War currency recently donated to the state history commission. The collection was donated by Harry B. Solmsion, executive vice president of Plough, Inc., a Memphis pharmaceutical firm.

is $9,000. There is also a $50,000 prize which will go to the golfer who scores a hole-in-one on one of the selected holes of the four courses in play.
